

Linecross

Supplier Requirements and Code of Conduct

1. Introduction

Linecross Limited ('Linecross') is committed to developing partnerships with suppliers and proactively managing the supply chain to exceed expectations on cost, quality, delivery, service and innovation. This Supplier Requirements and Code of Conduct document details the requirements and expectations of the supplier to drive improved performance in the supply chain, ensure strong working partnerships, and ensure compliance to relevant laws and regulations.

This document is intended to set out the way in which Linecross and our suppliers will behave towards each other, it is not intended to be legally enforceable. This document does not change or replace any contracts or terms and conditions agreed between Linecross and the supplier.

A signed copy of this document should be returned to the Linecross Purchasing team.

If violations of these requirements and code of conduct are identified, Linecross will work with the supplier to identify solutions wherever possible. However, failure to meet an agreed action plan may result in de-selection of the supplier.

2. Legality

Purchasing and contracting activity will fully respect and comply with all applicable UK laws and regulations; the relevant laws, regulations and so on of other territories in which organisations operate, to which we supply, or from which we source; and international laws, treaties and agreements to which the UK government is party (including, for example, any United Nations-approved trade sanctions).

It is not acceptable to source goods or services in a foreign territory solely in order to allow an activity to occur which would not be permissible in our home territory, and/or in those territories to which our goods and services are supplied (note that this does not preclude taking advantage of lower labour costs elsewhere, provided that these, and the associated conditions, at least meet the domestic norms of that territory).

Linecross is committed to the fair and effective application of laws and regulations. There is therefore a positive duty on the Linecross and its suppliers to report and refer any and all reasonably founded suspicions of illegal activity.

If requested, the supplier shall sign the Linecross confidentiality agreement and abide by its requirements.

3. Supplier Accreditations

In order to supply Linecross, the supplier should demonstrate that they have achieved relevant accreditations. For suppliers of raw materials and child parts, ideally you should have IATF 16949 accreditation, or be working towards achieving that standard. As a minimum you must have a valid ISO9001 certificate. Linecross may require that you pass a Linecross supplier audit to VDA6.3 conducted by one of our trained auditors. The scope of the accreditation must be applicable for the product(s) being supplied to Linecross.

For suppliers of consumable items, capital expenditure items and services, alternative accreditations may be specified before we purchase from you. All suppliers should sign this document, or provide a suitable alternative Code of Conduct.

Linecross reserves the right to request suppliers to complete self-audits and to conduct audits in person on site at the supplier if the need arises.

4. Tooling Ownership

Tooling and manufacturing aids funded by Linecross remain the property of Linecross, and must be identified and documented as such.

5. Specifications and Compliance

Linecross will agree the relevant specifications and drawing to ensure compliance of the supplied product / service. The supplier is required to ensure compliance in all aspects of these specifications.

For raw materials and child parts, the supplier shall make a declaration using the IMDS database, www.mdssystem.com, of substances within the composition of the product provided.

For raw materials, the supplier must provide a Certificate of Conformity and Certificate of Analysis with each delivery.

For child parts, the supplier must provide a PPAP submission including sample parts and completed documentation to demonstrate compliance to the specification. Following PPAP approval by the Linecross quality team, the agreed bill of materials, process flow, control plan, test & inspection methods, supply chain and packaging method must not be changed without the prior agreement of Linecross.

The supplier must not supply counterfeit parts or materials.

Linecross will identify any significant / critical / D-TLD characteristics or legislative requirements as part of the specification provided to the supplier. Controls for these characteristics must be demonstrated throughout the manufacturing process.

6. New Part Introduction

New product introduction milestones for supply and approval shall be agreed between the supplier and Linecross when the supplier is nominated and purchase orders are raised. Upon receipt of a purchase order, the supplier is required to support the new part introduction process with a capable team to ensure compliant parts are provided to the required timing plan.

7. Delivery and Packaging

Delivery requirements for parts will be communicated by the due date on the purchase order provided by Linecross. It is the responsibility of the supplier to ensure that product is received at Linecross in accordance with these dates and quantities.

It is the responsibility of the supplier to ensure that products are packaged in a suitable way to prevent damage in transit.

Suppliers outside of the UK must ensure that all customs requirements are met when delivery occurs to the UK. For suppliers who deliver, Linecross must be notified when goods are shipped to ensure UK customs import declarations can be completed. In the case that Linecross collects from the supplier, the supplier must ensure that customs export documentation is completed before parts are collected by Linecross.

8. Quality

The supplier should ensure that the parts and services supplied meet the agreed specifications (see section 5 above). The parts supplied are expected to be defect free. Known issues must be declared before shipment or the commencement of a service, and deviation approval gained from Linecross.

Any deviations in process, product quality or long-term reliability will not be accepted.

Linecross will issue a Supplier Reject Note (SRN) upon identifying defective parts and materials in stock, during the assembly process or as a result of a warranty claim attributed to supplied parts from our customer. Rejected parts must be collected within 14 days. If parts are not collected within this period, Linecross reserves the right to dispose of the defective parts and recover any associated disposal costs from the supplier.

Effective corrective action is required following an SRN, and the supplier shall ensure containment actions are in place to prevent re-occurrence within 24 hours. A full 8D and corrective action report should be provided to Linecross within 28 days.

Linecross reserves the right to recover costs and charges from the supplier associated with defective goods received. This includes charges Linecross receives from its customers due to quality defects on parts and materials from the supplier, including costs associated with warranty claims in the field.

9. Supplier Performance

Linecross will monitor and record the performance of suppliers based upon a number of key performance indicators relevant to the business. Where poor performance is identified, the supplier shall be informed and corrective actions agreed. Continued poor performance will affect the ability of the supplier to gain new business or may result in de-selection.

The key performance indicators include:

- In full delivery – target 100%, minimum limit 95% of deliveries match exactly the quantity shown on the purchase order

Linecross must ensure that whenever we engage in trading activities, we do so in a way that reflects our commitment to fair competition while not compromising the achievement of our purpose.

12.6 Whistleblowing

Linecross is committed to openness and accountability. We expect eligible individuals, who have serious concerns about any aspect of our work or operations, to voice those concerns with the knowledge that, if made in good faith, their action will be welcomed and viewed positively. We have a whistleblowing policy in place to ensure concerns can be raised.

Any concerns covered by this procedure should be raised with Linecross in the first instances to allow us the chance to deal with them. This procedure should not be bypassed and concerns must not be disclosed externally, including on social media, other than in exceptional circumstances, for example if you have good reason to believe that evidence would be destroyed if you did not do so.

Linecross strongly encourages you to seek advice before reporting a concern to anyone external. 'Protect' is an independent whistleblowing charity which operates a confidential helpline. Their contact details are helpline: +44 20 7404 6609, e-mail: whistle@protect-advice.org.uk; website: www.pcaw.org.uk.

Suppliers who raise genuinely-held concerns in good faith under this procedure will not be subjected to any detriment as a result of such action, even if they turn out to be mistaken.

13. Human Rights and Modern Slavery

Linecross does not tolerate modern slavery and is committed to limiting the risk of modern slavery occurring within our own business, or infiltrating our supply chains, or any other business relationship.

Modern slavery includes, but is not limited to: slavery, servitude, forced and compulsory labour, human trafficking, child labour. All forms of modern slavery have in common the deprivation of a person's liberty by another in order to exploit them for commercial or personal gain and amount to a violation of an individual's fundamental human rights.

We expect the supplier to have proper measures in place to ensure that modern slavery is not occurring within your own business or supply chain.

More information on modern slavery can be found at www.gov.uk/government/collections/modern-slavery.

14. Sustainability and Environmental Responsibility

Linecross is aware that all of its activities associated with the development, manufacture, distribution and use of its products can have a direct or indirect influence on the environment. Environmental protection is a serious obligation within the company.

We undertake to treat natural resources carefully and conscientiously and reduce our consumption where possible, particularly in regard to the use of energy, water and raw materials. We are striving to increase our use of renewable energy and reduce our greenhouse gas emissions. We are committed to avoiding air and water pollution, through regulatory control of local authority permits. We aim to reduce the generation of waste with the aid of appropriate technology and processes. We ensure that waste which cannot be avoided or recycled is disposed of in an environmentally acceptable manner. Any chemical waste will be disposed of in line with current waste management laws using certified waste disposal companies.

We are aware of the potential negative impact of the ultimate disposal of our products on the environment, so we will co-operate with our suppliers and customers' initiatives to reduce this.

We expect the supplier to honour their obligation to operate in an environmentally-friendly manner while improving their environmental performance. The supplier should have the same requirements of environmental responsibility for their sub-suppliers.

We expect that our suppliers have ISO14001 accreditation. If the supplier does not have this accreditation, you should have a plan to reach these standards and demonstrate continual performance.
